The Railway Mail Clerks Are Engaged In a Dispute

There is a stir before the House. The general investigation civil service committee about organization now in progress, before that committee of railway mail clerks in New York over efforts of railway mail clerks to join the American Federation of Labor has brought out some information about the dismissal of railway mail clerks in that section, including R. A. Quackenbush of Boston and H. E. Slocum of Springfield.

It is claimed that President A. C. Walton of the New England division of the Railway Mail Clerks' Association, residing at Jamaica Plain, and other officials have been opposing the more radical clerk and may have known something about the dismissals. The committee will undoubtedly hear both sides before reaching

Brilliant Society Wedding at Unitarian Church
This Noon

In Portsmouth society circles there a diamond pendant, to his best man was never seen a more brilliant, impressive and notable marriage ceremony than that by which in the Unitarian church at noon today Rev. Alfred Gooding united Miss Constance Heffenger, third daughter of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Mr. Arthur C. and Mrs. Frances Peirce left on an afternoon train on (Pickering) Heffenger of 8 Austin street, return they will reside in the cottage only son of Mrs. Susan (Littlefield) Peirce of 16 Court street.

The King's chapel service was used. Miss Priscilla Heffenger, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and George M. Proctor, Jr., of Boston, a business associate of the groom, was the best man.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Mary Lowell of Boston, Hilda Valentine of Grafton, Mass., and Dorothy Foster, Blanca Cogswell, Marion Buckett and Eleanor Richter of this city.

James S. Proctor and Thomas S. Streeter of Boston, Nathan H. Bachelder of Keene, Stephen Deane, Jr., of Kittery Point, and Ralph May and Frederic Gooding of this city were the ushers.

Attired in a beautiful creation of white chiffon over white satin with silver trimming, wearing a white tulle veil also adorned with silver and carrying a bouquet of bride's roses the bride was the personification of all that pertains to feminine attractiveness. The bridesmaids were in gowns of white satin, veiled in white, and carried bouquets of white caps and flowers.

Among the attendants on the ceremony, which filled the church to overflowing, were numbered guests from Boston, New York, Washington, and elsewhere.

The groom's gift to the bride was Philadelphia and elsewhere.

ALARM FELT FOR AMERICANS

Conditions on West Coast of Mexico Bad—Naval Force May Be Ordered There.

Washington, May 5—Increasing the failure of peace negotiations and anxiety approaching alarm, is felt by a consequent prevalence of anarchy. administration officials for the safety of Americans in Mexico, especially in the vicinity of Acapulco, on the west coast.

Conditions described as intolerable were reported to the state department today by Ambassador Wilson, and it is probable that naval forces will be ordered to Acapulco at once. Sunday calm marked the anniversary of the battle of Puebla, up to noon. There had been no indication of disorder in any quarter of the city.

Contradicting the information of the war office last night, Ambrosio Figueroa, representing the rebels in Guerrero and Morelos, said today that no agreement for peace had been made between him and Minister of War Cosío. The conferences thus far, he states, were merely those of courtesy.

State department officials plainly were worried by the disquieting advice received from the ambassador to Mexico, despite the fact that Mr. Wilson said that the Mexican war department has sent urgent telegraphic instructions to the commanding officer at Acapulco to afford all possible aid to Americans.

The matter was taken up by Mr. Wilson as the result of the report that two sons of Judge Melvin Goodman had been murdered by alleged revolutionary bandits at their father's hacienda, Buena Suceso, not far from Acapulco. The neighborhood of the reported crime is said to overrun by bandits, who owe no allegiance to any responsible organization.

Mr. Wilson wired also that Americans in Mexico City are becoming alarmed, and that their unrest is due in some measure to apprehension of

Manager of Naps, Who Resigned, and First Baseman Who May Succeed Him

Cleveland, May 6—The resignation of Jim McGuire as manager of the Naps came as a big surprise to the fans here.

While the team has not shown anything like pennant winning ball, the general opinion is that the Naps would improve as the season advanced. On paper the club figures stronger than last season. In the fall of 1909 McGuire succeeded Larry Lagorio as leader of the local club. In his day he was one of the greatest catchers that ever donned a mask. He is the oldest man in baseball today, having been in harness over twenty-six years.

McGuire will act in the position of scout. George Stovall, captain and first baseman of the team, is now in charge of the team. He is one of the best hitters in the American league. If Stovall shows that he can handle the team he may be given a chance to prove his managerial ability.

of Elise, the 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Souther, of Boston, of rheumatic fever. The remains were brought to Hampton for burial on Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Souther have sympathizers in town, where they have made their summer residence for many years.

William Brown, who a short time ago purchased the residence formerly owned and occupied by Frank S. Mason, has been making numerous improvements and will soon have it in readiness for his own occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ring moved into their new home the first of the week.

Mrs. E. H. Thompson entertained the Ladies aid sewing circle on Thursday.

Miss Elizabeth Philbrick, who went on a visit to Lawrence a few days ago, has been taken with the measles and will be unable to return for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Perkins returned home from their trip to Florida and other Southern states where they have spent the winter, on Friday.

Mrs. Abbie Drake and son, Irving, returned from Florida also on Friday, having been in the South since November.

The lecturer, Mrs. Ladd, advertised to speak at the town hall on May 10, under the auspices of the grange, has been obliged to cancel all engagements on account of ill health. However, the grange are fortunate in securing another lecturer, Rev. A. H. Wheelock, of Marlboro, Mass., who comes very highly recommended, and will speak at the same place and date, May 10; subject, "First Things First."

Mr. Wheelock is chaplain of the Massachusetts State grange. Tickets may be obtained of the master. Don't forget the lecture on Tuesday evening, May 16, by Miss Mary N. Chase, president of the New Hampshire Suffrage association, as previously advertised. There will be no admission charged but a collection will be taken.

TOURING THE REAL VALUE OF THE MOTOR CAR

With the opening of the automobile touring season and the reappearance of thousands of cars on the popular highways have some evidence of renewed activity on the part of local constables as shown in the frequent reports of arrests for excessive speeding. In the majority of cases the offenders are those to whom the pleasures of touring are of secondary importance. Their only thought is to drive their machines at the maximum speed rate whenever a level stretch of road opens up before them. Half a dozen of these speed maniacs can do more than anything else to revive the nuisance of speed traps and cause trouble to hundreds of motorists who believe in safe driving and a careful observance of the rights of others.

Reports recently received at the Touring Club of America, Broadway, at 76th Street, New York indicate that this speed mania has already caused the reestablishment of local speed traps in many parts of Long Island, Westchester County and the upper part of New York state and the same policy of warning motorists of these nuisance spots will be adopted this year, as in previous seasons; where these traps are particularly obnoxious, scouts will be placed on Saturdays and Sundays to give proper warning and at the same time to caution motorists to observe the rules of the road and all proper touring regulations on all parts of the highway and not only in particular places.

It is significant of the attitude regarding automobilism held by the majority of owners that, as a result of the recent discussion by some manufacturers on the subject of racing, many letters have been received by the Touring club upholding the position of those who seek to minimize the importance of motor racing, placing the greatest importance on the reliability of the every day car to travel thousands of miles, through all sorts of country and with the assurance of reaching the desired destination successfully.

As one writer remarked in speaking of the so called stock car races, the owner of a certain make of car which has figured successfully in a track contest, reeling off the miles at an average of somewhat under sixty seconds, is often induced by this very fact to utilize the public highways for his own racing ground in order to see if his fully equipped touring car can hit it up for a mile or two at the rate of sixty or seventy miles an hour. It is this type of a man who calls forth editorial utterances condemning all motorists and who brings speed traps into existence and local constables into activity. These are the class of motorists that Justice Norris S. Bartlett had in mind when, in charging the grand jury in Philadelphia a few days ago, said:

"Some owners and operators of automobiles seem to be under the impression that the highway were made for their individual use, and that if a citizen is injured, he must not complain even if it wasn't his fault. Mere fines do not seem to have had much effect upon this class of criminality. It may be a few months in the county prison would have the desired effect. Where human life is taken, the severity of the maximum penalty of the law would probably have a healthy effect in rooting out this growing evil."

The automobile manufacturers who are not afraid to condemn the racing fever realize thoroughly the problem that all the attendant evils of the racing game bring the legitimate use of the motor car. They are fully alive to the fact that unless the speed mania is checked, drastic legislation will surely be enacted. Indeed, the indications of this fact are already seen in several bills recently introduced into the legislatures of some of the eastern states toward curtailing the maximum speed limit now permitted on the highway.

The Touring club of America, while opposing undue discrimination against the motorist, recognizing the fact that he has the same rights, but no more, as every other user of the public roads, has always advocated the endurance and reliability for long distance touring purposes as the greatest assets of the motor car. The increasing popularity of touring in America shows conclusively that the majority of automobile owners take this rational view of the motor vehicle. While the Touring club officers will carefully investigate in the interests of their members and all other motor travelers, reports of speed traps, proving wherever necessary, scouts to warn tourists of the existence of such nuisances, the point will not be lost sight of that motor tourists, being the great majority of motor car owners, really hold the destinies of reasonable automobile use and legislation in their hands.

As the bride led her friends into her cool, spotless kitchen, they broke into a chorus of approval.

"Well, I am proud of it," she said, "and proudest of all my stove. It's a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove, and I think they are the best in the world. They toast, roast, broil and bake equally well—really to perfection—and the kitchen stays much cooler and cleaner than with any other range. This stove cuts my kitchen work almost in half."

EXHIBITION OF SCHOOL WORK

The annual exhibition of the pupils of the public schools was opened on Friday afternoon at the High school building and it was one of the best ever held. There was a good attendance of the parents during the afternoon and a much larger number in the evening.

The exhibition was held in the assembly hall and it included the work of the scholars of the kindergarten to the high school. In the other rooms on the same floor were exhibits of sewing, mechanical drawing and etc., and in the lower rooms an exhibit of the work of the manual training classes.

The exhibition is excellent in every detail, and shows excellent judgment on the part of the teachers in displaying it. The display includes all branches of the work from the kindergarten to the more detailed work of the children of the upper grades and the high school pupils. Possibly, the most interesting is the drawing and cut out work of some of the lower grades, illustrating stories and etc.

The manual training classes have an attractive showing and some of the work shows remarkable skill on the part of the pupils. Turned wood work, models, patterns and etc., as well as mechanical drawings make an exhibition of which all concerned may well feel proud.

Supt. MacDougal and all of the teachers were present and gladly explained the work of their respective departments.

The exhibition will be continued again this afternoon.

Cascarets Splendid For Elderly Folks

The rule for old people is—One Cascaret daily. The bowels, like other muscles, grow less active with age—They need Help.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. And most of them need them daily. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at sixty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. And there is no matter of choice here. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box.

Chinese Revolutionists Riot and Pillage at Canton and Other Places In That Vicinity.

The revolutionists who started an uprising at Canton, China, recently captured a number of towns, and fighting and pillaging have been reported from different points, the movement extending over a large area. At one place where there was rioting the prefect was assassinated. American, British and German gunboats have been rushed to the scene for the protection of foreign residents. Dispatches reported that the troops and rebels engaged with great ferocity. Cautious heads and headless bodies in European dress were strewn in the streets of the disturbed section.

DOVER BALKS AT EXTRAVAGANCE IN SCHOOL AFFAIRS

Dover is crying out over the policy of extravagance in the school department especially on the recent increase of pay to teachers and tuition money. In commenting on tuition pupils who are taken care of at $40 a year, the Dover Tribune quotes conditions in this city as follows:

Portsmouth has accepted tuition pupils in its high school, but the tuition charge in that city is $50. Is Dover high school inferior in its equipment or teaching force? If not, why shouldn't it get $50 as well as Portsmouth?

Our high school building certainly cost us enough, and the teachers there are being paid salaries enough to entitle Dover if it is to continue to educate non-resident scholars to at least as high tuition as Portsmouth receives. But as we understand it there is still another feature to the situation, and one which in view of certain increases in salaries referred to, might appeal to the reason of the taxpayers.

A GAME OF BLUFF

At a conference between Governor Mead of Vermont and President Melan of the Boston and Maine and New York, New Haven and Hartford lines in Boston recently, Mr. Stickney, one of the governor's party, hit the nail pretty fairly on the head in an exposition of his views upon the Grand Trunk's attempt to gain access to Boston.

After a survey of the situation and an explanation of the physical difficulties attendant upon any entrance by the Grand Trunk, he voiced it as his personal, not official, opinion that it would be inadvisable to permit the road to enter since the railroads of New England should be owned and operated by New England men and New England money.

The old saying that to get acquainted with an army of "farmers" one should go to New York, or words to that effect, it seems is equally applicable to Boston, judging by the lamb-like meekness and gullibility with which the Canadian corporation's transparent efforts are being received.

Why does not the New England Chamber of Commerce call the Grand Trunk's game of bluff and the yellow journal's scheme to inflate its circulation? It has flouted to the four winds of heaven its slogan "New England-made goods—why may it not be revised to include New England-owned railroads? The Grand Trunk's money is largely Canadian or English.

BIRDS EYE VIEWS

Why don't the farmers take a straw vote in connection with the reciprocity agreement? Hey?

The announcement that four hundred million bananas were consumed in this country last year peels forth to the ears of an amazed public.

Now they are investigating an alleged fishermen's bribery found in Illinois, but our greatest concern is to know whether Lorimer is going to get the hook.

The Panama statesman who had six bullets fired at him as he rose to make an after-dinner speech might have been excused had he sat down again very shortly.

Will the electrician who was ordered to install dummy fire alarm boxes on a Hudson river steamer be made the scapegoat as was Capt. Van Schaick of the General Slocum?

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to shave his upper lip and let his whiskers grow? asks the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Meaning: Cannon? Oh, he got his same time ago, but it was a close shave.

The senate committee on contingent expenses reports that there is money available to pay the cost of another Lorimer investigation. Excellent! Now let it be devoted to buying leather medals to the legislators who voted against unseating him.

The Japanese have abandoned their effort to reach the south pole, their expedition being unable to penetrate the ice pack along the coast of Victoria Land. Too bad jiu jitsu couldn't in some way be employed for the pacification of this forbidding country.

Too bad the experts couldn't have found a chance to examine the rights in the hull of the Maine. Nor they will be less able to deduce from the appearance of those in the monitor Puritan whether Capt. Austin M. Knight really and truly did sink her, or whether she went to the bottom through being riddled by Japanese guns.

the bottom through being riddled by Japanese guns.

Capt. Baldwin, the Arctic explorer, is to spend the years from 1913 to 1917 in a ship, drifting with the ice floes of the Arctic ocean. And as though this were not sufficient self-inflicted punishment there will be the harrowing thought that Cook has been there before him.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Vermont Bureau of Information. To the people of Massachusetts and New England generally, the departure made by Vermont in starting a public information bureau to further the development of that state will occasion much satisfaction. Anything done along this line by any part of New England is bound to benefit New England as a whole. Especially is this departure an interesting and welcome feature, as a sign that Vermont is preparing to get in the procession of progress and make way for conditions that will enable it to reap bigger returns from its natural attractions. We need the co-operation of Vermont in respect to our highway problems, our "better farming" problems, and along various lines.

The last Legislature authorized the expenditure of $5000 "to promote the further development of the natural resources of the state by the collection, preparation, publication and distribution of reliable information and statistics touching its natural and industrial advantages." In accordance with this act, a "bureau of information and publicity" has been established in connection with the office of the secretary of state, Guy W. Bailey, who has his office in Essex Junction. In a statement to the press the bureau says:

It is Mr. Bailey's plan to issue booklets on subjects pertaining to the resources of the state and give them wide distribution. He has in preparation a booklet on summer resorts and boarding houses. This publication is intended to cover the subject fully, giving information on all sections of the state and in fact on everything that interests the vacation seeker. This booklet will be available at city railroad ticket offices and information bureaus of the metropolitan newspapers.

Agriculture and the forms of Vermont will be the subject of the booklet, now being prepared. This booklet may be had by addressing the secretary.

Vermont, while it shows a decrease in population in the rural sections, farm values, according to the census of 1910, have perceptibly increased. The census also shows that the farms of Vermont raise more grain to the acre, especially corn, than is raised in almost all the other states of the Union.

Much has been published of late respecting the decrease in Vermont's exports themselves as believing they have made a discovery. While this condition is in part true, it is not different from a like condition that exists in practically all of the older states of the Union. Every country has passed through an era of changing population from rural sections to cities and villages. Then tendency of humanity is to commingle. As applied to Vermont this condition does not mean that the state is growing poorer. In dollars and cents Vermont is richer today than ever before in her history. Her savings banks and trust companies have loaned to the people of other states—mostly Western states—$31,000,000, the deposits of Vermont people.

The farmers of Vermont are prosperous. The manufacturing industries are well engaged. There is much to be said in favor of the state, and the new publicity bureau contemplates giving information on many subjects of interest to the people of the country from time to time.

New Hampshire has long enjoyed a heavy summer resort business. Its White mountains have been a famous resort for generations and that region has been well advertised by the railroad and hotel companies. Of late years the state itself has done much to advertise itself along certain lines. Some think the New Hampshire plan of publicity is open to criticism, in working too much along the line of development a mere summer population. Perhaps Vermont can improve on that plan. In any case the attractions of the Green Mountains need to be brought more fully to the attention of the public; also the opportunities to buy farms cheap in that state, and other features that doubtless will receive attention from the newly established publicity bureau. As regards the citizenship of Vermont, no concern need be felt. It is of the right sort. Vermonters have done much to promote the growth of other commonwealths, from coast to coast. The same hardy and vigorous stock will yet place Vermont itself in the forefront of progressive and prosperous states.—Springfield Union.

Saving a Lost River.

The only criticism that can be made to the work of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, the headquarters of which are at 6 Hancock Avenue in this city, is that it did not start out on its mission soon enough. The society, however, is displaying an energy now that betokens a disposition to make up for lost time. While Massachusetts has wisely set apart its own mountain tops and other scenic points as permanent possessions of the

FROM
"NEW ENGLAND,"
Published by the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Our Great Industrial Future

THERE is reasonable ground of justification of the belief that New England is about entering upon a new era in its history, so far as its material development is concerned, and that a great industrial future is rapidly taking shape.

Many of the elements that have tended to keep it in the conservative and pioneer spirit of the Pilgrims bids fair to resume its influence under the newer conditions.

It is fair to assume that New England is to show what growth which comes from initiative and knowledge of new business conditions, put into practical operation by enterprise attracted by opportunity. It is no longer destined to be content with the residuum of its best human product, while the vigorous proportion is drafted to develop other sections of the country.

That there is a decided drift of enterprise to New England is the most hopeful sign now apparent. The men of New England have always been its greatest asset, and the greatest asset of the nation. Now it is apparent that the keen-eyed and restless enterprise of the men of America has convinced them that there is a field for the men of New England, and we find men turning to this section because they perceive that here there is a fair chance to reap the large rewards they seek.

A study of conditions and tendencies in New England reveals a strong probability that the men of the six states are justified in expecting that all of the great staple industries will greatly increase in production, and that business and wealth will multiply themselves. While the market will continue to demand greater supplies, it is evident that now there is an outlet in New England for greatly increased New England production. In some lines of produce our markets are supplied with but a fraction of the demand from our own production.

New England should produce, for example, poultry and eggs for shipment to other sections, being admirably adapted for that business, whereas it actually does produce but about one-fifth of its own consumption; and something comparable to this is the fact in many other lines of production.

The hopeful consideration is that New England people are now awake to this condition, and are busy remedying it. New England is industrially in much the condition the Middle States were after the war of rebellion—a fertile and inviting field for pioneer enterprise; and that fact has come already to be so well established that there is a tide of immigration setting into New England from other sections of the country, which is supplementing the grain through the check to emigration and joining with those of our own sons who public, New Hampshire, perhaps because of the wealth of her natural wonders, did not move aggressively in that direction until this society by private means, combined with legislative endeavor, set about to remedy the situation.

The society has recently negotiated with the owners of the Lost River, which lies seven miles west of North Woodstock, on the northern slope of Mount Moosilauke, for the maintenance of that curious freak of nature, so that it will be open to the public. They are willing to give the society the river and the land adjoining it, free of charge, on condition that its new owners will buy the hardwood timber that remains there at a fair valuation, and set the place apart for the future as a natural curiosity.

These extremely favorable terms should be promptly accepted. The Lost River is a fair-sized mountain stream which suddenly descends into an underground course, and falls for a space of half a mile through great limestone caverns, emerging again to the surface at a lower level, to make the rest of its journey to the Merrimack. People go in increasing numbers to see the Lost River and to make the underground journey in raincoat and rubber boots, beside this strange stream.

The top of Sunapee Mountain, covering 660 acres, this Society also plans to acquire, in co-operation with people who are buying the wild lands of Mount Monadnock for permanent preservation. These are typical activities of the society. They deserve the most cordial support. They interest not New Hampshire alone, but all lovers of nature in her varied moods.—Boston Herald.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Portsmouth Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorder is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Portsmouth readers.

Charles E. Oliver, 45 Coffins Alley, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Standing for hours brought a constant strain on my kidneys and I finally began to have kidney complaint. My back was so lame at times that I could hardly attend to my work and I was also troubled by headaches and spells of dizziness. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use, following the directions closely. The pains in my back and other symptoms of kidney complaint soon left me and I felt much better in every way. The cure has since proven to be a permanent one and I, therefore, advise anyone suffering from disordered kidneys to try Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE MAN WHO WON

There's a voice and a shout for the men who win,
There's a storm of applause and of wonder;

But never a cheer for the men whose sin

Was only to fall and to blunder.

So here is a song for the men who moil

With the frowning skies above them.

And here is a toast for the sons of toil—

To the men who lose—God love them!

Oh, what is success but an empty game?

What is wealth but a bauble ever?

Yet right is a something more than a name

Though the wrong rides high for ever.

So here is a song for the sons that live

Though fortune ne'er caress them

And here is a toast for the souls that strive—

To the men who lose—God bless them!

—National Magazine.

There's a cheer for heroes on land and sea,

There's fame for the high endeavor,

There's a shout for the knight of chivalry,

There's a praise for the strong and clever.

But here is a song for the ones that live

Though fortune ne'er caress them.

And here is a toast for the souls that strive—

To the men who love—God bless them!

We hear a lot of old-time songs.

some people will implore the singers to arise and sing the good old songs of yore. They sigh and mourn about the joy they have in olden days, and say their hearts are yearning for the songs of other days.

Oh, read a book of ancient songs.

"The Mocking Bird" and all—not one in all the lot but will move you to weep and bawl; not one in all the bunch but tells of some one dead for years; the chorus then is full of sobs and bitter, bitter tears.

All broken hearts and busted hopes and crushed and shattered dreams the olden songs go wailing on and have no joyful gleams; they're mostly made of empty homes and unrequited love, with the refrain that give you pains and say "we'll meet above."

Next time somebody begs of you to sing some song that's old, lift up your voice and sing the "Silver Threads Among the Gold," or that gay one which begs you to "See That

My Grave's Kept Green," and never more the songs of yore will be called for.

To write the history of this country in song, has always been the aim of Billy Jerome, and the satirical manner in which he sometimes brings certain events to the notice of his great following has brought favorable comment from some of the greatest men of the day. On the impulse of the moment, he, in connection with his musical associate, Jean Schwartz, has written and introduced to the public a song entitled, "They're all Good American Names." The satire lies in the fact that neither Washington, Lincoln, Grant, McKinley, nor any of our heroes are mentioned. The first verse brings in the names of all the Irish athletes, the second verse includes all the baseball players with

Celtic names, and the third verse, really the hit of the song—refers to the great race which, during the past thirty years, has made such wonderful strides in every branch of business, in the arts, and in all the professions. This verse will appeal to everybody that has been in New York and noticed the changes in the business section of old Broadway.

When the song was first sung in

New York it actually received such an amount of applause that one of the best vaudeville shows fairly came to a standstill.

Margie Cline, the Celtic wonder, is making the hit of her life with this song, and it is worth going miles to hear her sing it. In order to give an idea of the satire of the song we quote the last verse and chorus:

I love to stroll along Broadway, and gaze at every sign.

The Yankee-Doodle notion store is run by Rosenstein.

You'll find a good old Yankee name

on every business house,

There's Rosenheimer, Jacobs, Weizner,

Gimble, Sax and Strauss.

Abraham and Ethne, Oppenheim and

Kline;

Rosenberger and Levinsky, Harris,

Cohen and Rosinsky;

Simon, Hyman, Wyman, men of Levi, Wilsky, Berg and Falk, are the men who rule New York—

They're all good American names.

BACK AFTER HALF A CENTURY

Ancient Shoals Packet Built On Noble's Island

Now Here

After an absence of nearly half a century there returned to this Friday afternoon the steamer Pioneer, a venerable product of Piscataqua shipyards which may well awaken buried memories along the water front if not elsewhere.

The Pioneer was built on Noble's Island in 1864 and her first service was carrying freight and passengers between this city and the Isles of Shoals. Represented by George W. Tucker and commanded by Capt. Joseph Amazon she plied several seasons in this trade.

Soon afterward she was sold to Winthrop, Me., parties for duty between the islands, and again in Brooksville, Me., owners, who placed her on the route between Belfast, Castine, Brooksville and other Penobscot Bay ports for the carrying of freight and passengers.

Having outlived her usefulness in to Rockland parties and converted into a barge for the stone trade. Next she was purchased in Boston, given a gasoline engine and used as a general harbor utility boat.

Only a few years ago the Eastern Dressing company took a fancy to the ancient craft and purchased her for use as a tender to its dredging fleet. Her gasoline engine gave way to the original steam, but the Pioneer was hardly recognizable as the Shoals packet of the sixties when she "came home" Friday.

She was sent to this port from Boston with a cargo of coal for the use of the dredge now at work in Peppercell's Cove. She is expected to return to that port today. The Pioneer now hails from Portland and is in command of Capt. Betts. She is one of the oldest steam craft now in commission.

any definite conclusion.

Second Assistant Postmaster-General Stewart defined the opposition of the postoffice department to the proposed unification of railway mail matters Friday before the House committee on reform in the civil service.

"The character of the organization proposed is objectionable," Mr. Stewart said. "A labor union that will not admit officers and supervisors of departments; that holds its meetings behind closed doors; that has a secret word, and that does not permit members of departments to take part in deliberations will always be disapproved by this department."

Such a form of organization, Mr. Stewart declared, might be a peril to the government.

Discussing the department order informing railway mail clerks that they would not be permitted to organize, Mr. Stewart said:

"It was done to meet an emergency. The railway mail is the backbone of the postal service. We could not tolerate a secret association over which the department was not supreme."

ENOUGH VOTES ARE PLEDGED

Washington, May 5.—It is learned that 55 senators have pledged themselves to vote for the reciprocity bill without amendment, and as this leaves 36 votes (if all may be so counted) against the measure, the bill looks forward to the future can now be well understood.

Of course, any number of amendments may be expected to be offered, and these will be mainly by the progressive elements seeking to make capital before the farmers of the country in order to further their own presidential aspirations and to undermine the prestige of the president in effecting the enactment of the agreement. Nobody as yet ventures to see an early end of the debate, but even progressives opposed to the bill assert the likelihood of its passage. Apparently, too, the Democratic in the senate will almost be as solid for the measure as the Democrats in the House were.

Congressman Thayer of the Worcester district had the floor yesterday in the house in the debate on the farmer's free list bill, which he supported with great enthusiasm. He took occasion to be very critical of the United Shoe Machinery Co., which Wednesday Congressman Weeks, his colleague from a neighboring district, had commended. He referred to the legislation which has been enacted in Massachusetts against the company. The opposition Mr. Thayer showed to the company illustrated in the house the division that exists in Massachusetts regarding the company.

Mr. Thayer also made merry with Mr. Weeks in other respects. In speaking of the coming redistricting in Massachusetts he pleaded that the Worcester district be given back the towns that were taken away from it years ago to make securely the district securely Republican, the Democratic towns being put in the Worcester district which already had a tremendous Republican majority. "Give me back my ewe lambs," cried Mr. Thayer.

He also paid his respects to argument of Mr. Weeks against putting boots and shoes on the free list, lest the boot and shoe manufacturers of Massachusetts be driven out of business. Mr. Thayer asked Mr. Weeks what had become of the shoe factories in many of the towns in his district which had closed despite the fact that the shoe industry enjoyed a high protective duty in the Dingley bill. He wanted to know why these factory buildings are closed and untenanted today. "I do not want any of these depopulated towns in my district," he said.

DIES AT HOT SPRINGS

Ex-Senator Kittredge of South Dakota Succumbs to Kidney Trouble. — Born in New Hampshire.

Hot Springs, Ark., May 5.—Ex-U. S. Senator Albert Beard Kittredge of South Dakota, died last night after a month's illness with liver and kidney trouble. His senatorial service ended two years ago.

The body will be taken to Keene, N. H. for interment.

Alfred B. Kittredge, U. S. senator from South Dakota for the last nine years, was born in New Hampshire 50 years ago and graduated at Yale. He went west, settled at Sioux Falls, S. D., became a lawyer and when he entered the senate was rated as one of the greatest railroad attorneys in the country.

He had little experience in public office prior to his election to the U. S. senate. He had a natural aptitude as a political manager, however, and directed the campaign of Senator Pettigrew in 1894, though when Pettigrew became imbued with populist principles he and Kittredge parted company and the latter became leader of the republican party in his state.

He was a member of the national committee from 1892 to 1900 and in 1901 succeeded to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Kyle.

BOYCOTT RESTAURANT MISS MORGAN FOUNDED

The Navy-Yard restaurant founded by Miss Annie Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, near the Sands street gate of the Brooklyn Navy Yard has become a storm center between two factions of workmen in the yard. The malcontents have placarded the neighborhood with posters calling on workmen to boycott the eating-house, but their efforts, it is said, have only reacted on them.

The ostensible cause of discontent was a pretty waitress and a popular cook, Miss McCann, the waitress had a tight hold on the heartstrings of the most susceptible. When she departed from the restaurant a few days ago she left many broken hearts. The dejected ones might have recovered if they had not heard that Thomas McGrath, the cook, had been docked two days' pay for absence when sick. They formed then a boycott committee.

The result was the warlike poster addressed "To all men working in the Navy-Yard." "It is up to boycott the restaurant," reads the bill. "Keep away and do not patronize it until we have a new management. The conditions are intolerable and such that it is an insult to all honest workmen." The notice had the effect that when the noon whistle blew yesterday scores of the Navy-Yard force patronized for lunch a neighborhood saloon delicately named "Bucket of Blood."

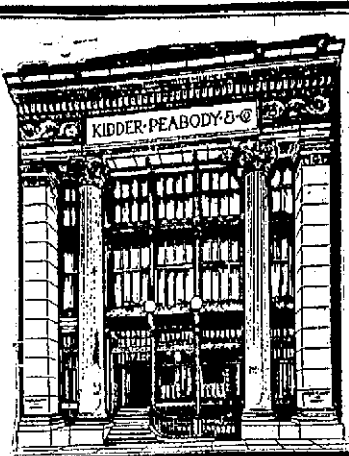

One of the malcontents thus explained the boycotters' side of the question:

"The food is not what it was and the waitresses are homely. Why, we used to get so much for twenty cents that we had to let out a link in our belts. Now a canary would starve on twenty cents' worth."

Nevertheless, in the face of this argument and flaring posters on every tree and trolley pole, a steady stream of Navy-Yard men entered the restaurant. These did not seem discontented. It was explained that most of them were married and that all biscuits shooters looked alike to them. "One of them was asked what the trouble was all about. He said: 'The real cause of the discontent is this: When the restaurant was started two years ago patrons were allowed to help themselves to bread and butter. As a result some of the men would get away with a loaf of bread and half a pound of butter. Then they would order a nickel plate of soup. Now, these men are displeased because they think that are not getting their money's worth. I don't know what they want for a nickel. I guess some of them prefer a saloon to a restaurant, anyhow.'"

The manager of the place did not seem greatly worried over the attempted boycott: she said the agitation had increased business, which statement filled the "strikers" who said they would redouble their efforts to boycott the place.

REPORT FILED

Inspector Gene at Tolls of National Guard.

Gen. William Sullivan of Manchester, inspector general of the National Guard has filed with the adjutant general the report of his recent inspection of the Coast Artillery corps, in which he states conditions as he found them as follows:

Headquarters in Portsmouth, suitable and convenient for the use required.

First company, Portsmouth.—The lockers for clothing and equipment were inadequate but efforts for the better care of such property were noted. A new storeroom was arranged for the care on the clothing and other equipment not in use in drills in the armory. Records of the company were well kept. The average knowledge of guard duty was but fair, but this was accountable in great measure to the fact that a large number of recruits had recently been enlisted and had received but little instruction.

Second company, Laconia.—Books and records were found in good condition. All public property was carefully stored and well kept. The personnel of the company appeared to be good. The officers appeared energetic and enthusiastic in their work and I am confident that under their supervision, an improvement will soon be noted in drill work and in general efficiency of the organization.

Third company, Exeter.—Rifles were found in very good condition except that a bolt was missing from one. Clothing and other equipments were clean and well kept except that five buttons were missing from olive drab coats of men in ranks. Knowledge of guard duty was excellent. Drill was good except in extended order lack of familiarity with their duties as squad leaders. Also an unnecessary stamping of the feet was noted. This company made the best appearance of any in the battalion, particularly in general knowledge of duty, care of equipments, etc. In my opinion Captain Foss is one of the most efficient officers in the Coast Artillery corps.

Fourth company, Dover.—A notable improvement was manifested in the care of clothing and equipment, but the inspector found much to criticize in the condition of some of the rifles and in the appearance of the company on drill.

The following general order announcing the award of trophies for work with the rifle in 1910, was issued this morning.

Major Arthur J. Pierce, Inspector-General, N. H. G., is designated as surveying officer to report upon property lost, damaged or unserviceable, pertaining to the several organizations of the New Hampshire National Guard, and will visit Keene, Newport and Peterborough for this purpose. Officers responsible for military property at these stations are directed to have in readiness all affidavits and other documents required to secure their release from responsibility for the loss and damage of property.

The following trophies will be awarded in accordance with paragraph 3, G. O. No. A. G. O., dated June 13, 1910.

A tricolor for company or troop making the highest figure of merit with the rifle for the record season of 1910, to Company K, First Infantry figure of merit 86.29.

A state trophy for the company of troop making the greatest gain in figure of merit with rifle for the record season of 1910, to Company K, First Infantry, figure of merit 83.81.

A state trophy for troop or battery making the highest figure of merit with revolver; figure of merit to be computed as in the three highest classes with rifle, to Troop A, figure of merit 70.89.

A trophy by the commanding officer, First Infantry, to the company in First Infantry making the highest percent of qualifications in the three classes (a marksman counts the same as sharpshooter or expert), to Company H, First Infantry, per cent of qualifications 69.69.

A trophy, by the field and staff, First Infantry, to company in First Infantry making the highest figure of merit in first, second and third class, to Company A, First Infantry, with figure of merit of 85.55.

A trophy, by officers of the ordnance department, for the company or troop attaining the highest percent of qualifications as third class marksman or better, to Company B, First Infantry, with per cent. of 85.93.

CARNEGIE GETS PEACE MEDAL

Special Honor Paid Founder of Peace Fund For His Good Work.

Washington, May 5.—Andrew Carnegie received today what he called his greatest mark of honor, when 21 American republics bestowed upon him a gold medal bearing on one side the words "Benefactor of Humanity," and on the other, "The American Republics to Andrew Carnegie."

According to John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American union, it was the first time in history that such a tribute from so many nations had been paid to an individual. Señor de Zamacona, the Mexican ambassador, made the speech of presentation; Sec. of State Knox presided and President Taft spoke in eulogy of the gifts which Mr. Carnegie has made for the cause of peace on this hemisphere and throughout the world.

Members of the diplomatic corps and when high in official life filled the hall of the Pan-American union building, where the ceremonies were held, and for the erection of which Mr. Carnegie gave almost a million dollars.

In accepting the medal, Mr. Carnegie told of his feelings on being informed of the honor conferred upon him by the Pan-American conference at Buenos Ayres.

"I was sitting at my desk in the highlands of Scotland last autumn," he said, "when a telegram was handed to me, which I opened and read without seeming to grasp the meaning of the words. I was stunned! Was I dreaming? My hands went to my forehead and I bent my head to my desk. Slowly the truth developed and I began to realize what it all meant. Truly, my friends, I never before felt so completely overwhelmed and crushed, as it dawned upon me that the honor which the conference had voted to confer was without parallel, 160,000,000 of people forming 21 sovereign nations, bestowing upon poor me an honor the like of which had never before been bestowed upon a human being.

"Still ashamed to stand up, I felt as if I should like to sink into the ground, conscious that I could never have the audacity to accept it, but as the days passed, Hamlet's words came to me, 'Treat the poor players not after their deserts, but after your own honor and dignity.' The poorer their merits, the larger will be your bounty."

"I was indeed in the condition of the poor players. The republics had followed Hamlet's advice and treated me not after my deserts, but after their own dignity and honor, and this thought resigned me to my fate.

Referring to President Taft's address a year ago, when he voiced a sentiment for a reign of peace among the Pan-American republics, Mr. Carnegie said:

"Thus, the President's first invitation to establish a reign of peace was properly made to you. Much has taken place since then. He recently held out the olive branch of peace, and it instantly was accepted by the other branch of our English-speaking race with such enthusiasm, not by one, but by all parties, that today we have every reason to believe that war as a means of settling disputes

Kitchen Work Becomes Play if You Use a GAS RANGE

The gas range means a clean cool kitchen and a neat and happy wife. Kitchen work is like play if you use a gas range. You never mind unexpected company if you have a gas range. Use a gas range and you will never have any trouble in keeping a cook. Various domestic emergencies arise which require a fire in a hurry—somebody must be fed before starting on a journey, or there is sickness in the family. Just imagine poking and crowding a scuttle of coal into a fire. Fancy the delay and labor in clearing the grate and building a fresh fire. Why subject yourself to all this inconvenience when the quick, clean, reliable gas range is at your service?

PORTSMOUTH GAS CO.

between two branches of our race will soon become a crime of the past.

In offering thanks to the nations, through their diplomats present, for the honor bestowed upon him, Mr. Carnegie asked them to accompany the expression with the ardent wish on his part that prompt action should be taken by the 21 republics to establish a reign of peace by adopting President Taft's policy of submitting disputes to arbitration. He added:

"Perhaps when the foremost and most successful apostle of peace has concluded his first compact of peace, abolishing war within the wide boundaries of our English-speaking race, he will turn again to our sister republics begging them to draw closer to each other, and by suitable treaties covering all disputes render it impossible that our sisterly peaceful relations can ever again be disrupted."

PURITAN RAISED AT EXPENSE OF $30,000

Wrecking Company Succeeds at New Port, News Where Government Fleet

The United States monitor Puritan was floated Thursday and was turned over to the Government at the Norfolk Navy Yard for docking Friday. The feat was accomplished by a wrecking company after the government had practically abandoned the work. The Puritan sank on the New-Port News middle ground after experimental explosive tests to which she was subjected some months ago. She is worth a million and a half dollars and it cost upwards of $30,000 to float her. The raised vessel, which was brought to the surface by use of pontoons and chains to prevent any possibility of capsizing, came up straight and is tight. The gaging openings in the Puritan's bottom had been patched by divers and the monitor was pumped out before any attempt at raising her was made.

Following the sinking of the Puritan, Captain Austin M. Knight of the ordnance department, who with his own hands set off the explosives that partly wrecked the vessel and sent her to the bottom, was court-martialed. He proved to the satisfaction of seven rear admirals that the ship remained afloat for twenty hours, and had provisions been made for docking her at Norfolk she could have been towed to the navy yard. Now Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who says someone was responsible for the sinking of the ship, will, it is said, come to Norfolk, inspect the damage done to the monitor, and perhaps order another court-martial. The Navy Department tried to float the ship without outside aid, but after two weeks work without results, fifty divers, mechanics and half a dozen experts reported that they could not accomplish the feat. Then the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking company offered to do the work for $25,000. They got the contract and floated the vessel. It is said that the Puritan experiments have already cost the Government $50,000, and if she is again made ready for service it will require an expenditure of $25,000 more.

AGREEMENT REACHED BY RAILROADS

Boston, May 5.—There was a conference at the North Station this morning which virtually settled the controversy between the New Haven and the Grand Trunk railroads over trackage rights in Vermont. It was agreed that Governor Mead of Vermont, who asked for the conference should issue the official statement as to the results, and this is the statement that he gave out for publication:

"The conference resulted in opening negotiations between the officials of the two roads looking to an adjustment, both at Brattleboro and Bellows Falls. There is a prospect that the roads will agree to a solution which will result in the new railroad being built in Vermont. The matter is now in the hands of Mr. Mellen and Mr. Fitzhugh, who will continue the negotiations at a conference on next Thursday.

Four interests were represented at the conference. The State of Vermont was represented by Governor Mead, Hon. John L. Lewis of North Troy, Lieutenant Governor L. P. Slack, Franklin E. Howe, Speaker of the House of Representatives; Major Harvey B. Kingsley, secretary of Civil and Military Affairs. The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was represented by President Mellen, Vice President Brynes and members of the legal and engineering departments. The Grand Trunk was represented by Vice President Fitzhugh, George Jones, who is general manager of the Central Vermont, and C. W. Witters of St. Albans, chief counsel. The city of Brattleboro was represented by ex-Attorney General C. C. Pitts, Judge Tyler, ex-judge of the supreme court; Colonel Kittredge Haskins, ex-member of Congress. Another party has interests in the situation and will be considered at the conference next Thursday. All but one of the details were agreed upon in plan that will enable the Boston & Maine to build on the Vermont side of Connecticut river in Brattleboro, instead of the New Hampshire side. Governor Mead is confident that this will be settled next Thursday, and there will be no need of calling a special session of the Legislature of Vermont. The Grand Trunk is now going on with its railroad improvements in accordance with plans sanctioned by the city and ordered by the Public Service Commission.

As summed up by Cy Warman for the Grand Trunk, the Central Vermont, which is owned by the Grand Trunk, controls by a ninety-nine years' lease the New London Northern. The New Haven wanted the New London Northern and would make the Grand Trunk a tenant, but the Vermont Legislature decided that the New Haven Company had no right to do that. The Grand Trunk people instead offered everything in the way of trackage arrangements, which is the usual way, but the New Haven declined. Both New Haven and Brattleboro were dissatisfied with the situation as it developed, and the New Haven people have made surveys and threatened to build on the New Hampshire side.

In the conference there was no talk about the movement to induce the Grand Trunk to come to Boston. Outside of the conference, Vice President Fitzhugh was asked about this by several persons, but he did not commit himself beyond saying that the Grand Trunk is appreciative of the expression of public opinion. He said that he understood that the question had gone to the board of directors. "We hope," he said, "within a few months to begin actual construction of the Southern New England railroad between Palmer and Providence. We will also spend this summer, some $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 in double-tracking around Toronto. No other New England construction, except such as has been planned by the Grand Trunk system this summer.

The 11th anniversary of Fannie A. Gardner Rebekah lodge was held at Odd Fellows' hall Friday evening with a large attendance of members and friends. Special guests were the officers of Union Rebekah lodge of this city.

Noble Grand Mrs. Blizie Estes presided and the program consisted of piano solo by Miss Marion White, readings by Miss Brooks of Cambridge, vocal solos by Miss Sara Folsom and Miss Edith Shannon. Following the musical and literary program supper was served in the banquet hall.

Fannie A. Gardner lodge, although one of the youngest in the state, is one of the most progressive, and although instituted only 11 years, has a membership of upward of 300 and a fund of $2500, well invested, which the members earned by various entertainments.

The committee in charge of the anniversary celebration consisted of Mrs. Emma B. Wendell, Miss Bertha Martin, Mrs. Laura Gurney, Mrs. Mabel Haskell, Miss Ethel Marston, Miss Frances Collins, Miss Marion White, Mrs. Ida A. Urch, Mrs. Luella Coram, Mrs. Hattie Gray, Mrs. Clara Lecky, Miss Berry, Mrs. Clara Whitehouse and Mrs. Jennie Trueman.

BENEDICT SOON TO BE IS HOST OF BOILERMAKERS

The boilermakers, helpers and others employed at the boiler shops at the navy yard were entertained at Recharite hall on Friday evening by one of the forces, Robert Anderson, who will shortly join the benedict army.

Everybody who could get there was within the walls. There was not an idle moment during the evening. Richard T. Call, the dean of the corps, started the festivities with the presentation of a handsome costly buffet.

Dick was there with the necessary characteristic speech and as usual made a big hit. Bobby got together as quick as possible and in a few well chosen words thanked the party for the beautiful gift. The amusement committee then opened their program and produced comedians who before had never appeared, but will be much in demand in the future.

Songs were given by P. J. Donovan, J. F. Kane, J. Fritz and Harry McDermod. Sam Wilson gave a number of Scotch recitations and Dannie Lynch recited "The Life of a Fireman." Bill Leahy came along with some new moves in buck and wing dancing and caught the house. The Boilermakers quartet were on hand with lots of vocal games. Frank Leary, the caterer, had charge of the spread which was another feature of the evening.

MATTISON'S In Verse

26 is the number, Congress is the street, Mattison's is the Barber Shop, Where a shave is sure a treat; Hair cutting is their specialty, Massaging they go fine, I need to go to other shops, Now is Mattison's far mine. With children they are very nice in fixing up their hair; Most Mothers think it quite the place To bring their little heirs.

Six barbers you will find there, And say, they're simply great; And another thing we noticed them, You never have to wait.

All ears they stop right at the door, Which makes it very handy, And it's fixed inside so very nice, Most people say its dandy.

I could talk all day about this shop, And not tell half its features, So I'll say to you as others have, Let experience be your teacher.

Those who are anxious to sing this will find it particularly suited to almost any popular air.
